If you do not

pay attention

to punctuation

you won't know

when to stop a sentence. For example: →

You're reading
a book and you're not paying attention to
punctuation, you
will not know
when to stop a sentence and →

you will be like

Ahhhhhhhhhh

I did not finish

the book

who took the end of the book

who was Harry Bradish?

Question marks are important because without them we would not know if the author is asking a question. Exclamation points are important → because the author uses it to express emotions.

Punctuation is important because if exclamation points were question marks then every question would be demands and if question marks

were periods then
every regular sentence would be a question.

It is important to pay attention to

punctuation (periods,

question marks,

exclamation points)

because you might read
it wrong.

* Punctuation is important because if you don't put them you wouldn't now if the sentence
end or not. or you wouldn't now if it is a question not.
