

Ella B.

Shlomo

PREWRITE

When we prewrite, we don't usually write the final product. We just use the prewriting to get our ideas down on paper. Some examples of how we can prewrite is by brainstorming, free writing, or making a list of ideas. We can also use a prewriting strategy to help us get our ideas down on paper.

Talia

Ari

graphic novels

computers family

horror

brussel sprouts Nancy Drew

colors outer space

robot invasion

Pizza

icecream art flavors

talking animals

Poetry

Skateboard

animal

PUPPY

PREWRITE

When we prewrite we don't actually write, we think about ideas that we can turn into a story, or even an Essay. Some examples of how we can prewrite is by brainstorming or writing random ideas on paper. Before drafting you can choose your favorite idea and then write your draft.